

Officials Frown on Bears' Attempt to Share Park

The contract between the city and Walter Morris, manager of the Torrance Merchants, giving that ball club exclusive use of the city park diamond will not be infringed on by any arrangement whereby the Torrance Bears, a Mexican baseball group managed by Manuel Alvarez, shares in the use of the field.

This was indicated Tuesday by Mayor William H. Tolson and other city officials when they were asked by The Herald about the Bears' proposal to alternate the use of the playing field. The contract between the city and Morris has proved very satisfactory, Mayor Tolson pointed out. It gives the city 10 percent of the gate or collection receipts and five percent of the concessions revenue.

Manager Alvarez had circulated a petition early this week which proposed that the city council "thru the Recreation department make arrangements whereby the Torrance Bears and the Torrance Merchants may play on alternate Sundays at the city park, beginning Sept. 1. The petition bears nearly 50 signatures.

Mayor Gives Views
City Clerk A. H. Bartlett says that the Merchants played 46 games at the city park last year, drawing approximately 14,450 fans, according to the Recreation department figures. The income derived by the city from the contract with Manager Morris was $144.57. He asserted that he never heard any complaints about the Merchants' exclusive use of the park and that Manager Morris has always cooperated in giving up Sunday engagements here when the park field was desired by civic, church or social groups. An instance of this, Bartlett said, is the release of the park on Sunday, Sept. 12, for the Masonic picnic.

"We have given the Torrance Bears a playing field, leveled it off and fixed it up for them at the Pueblo," Mayor Tolson said. "I see no reason why they should infringe on the city's contract with Morris. So far as I can determine, the Bears have not a strong organization of the type like the Torrance Merchants. They have played together for awhile and then broken up. Later they have re-organized and started a schedule."

"The Torrance Merchants have always attracted a high-class patronage. They have played some of the best teams in Southern California and their home field has given Torrance much good publicity. If the business and professional men who signed Manager Alvarez's petition had investigated, I don't believe they would have been so ready to lend their endorsement to the 'alternate use of the park' plan," the mayor concluded.

Black Bears Prefer Pigs' Food to Pigs

GAYLORD, Mich. (U.P.)—Contrary to popular belief, black bears apparently do not have any desire to eat pigs, according to members of the Pigeon River CCC camp. Several such bears, which regularly visit a pig pen maintained at the camp, push the pigs to one side in order to eat at the pen's trough.

El Segundo Grid Squad to Free Lance This Fall

Coach Harvey Hazeltine has six teams lined up for games with El Segundo high school football squad, which will free lance this year, and tentative dates have been arranged for each contest. Paramount feature of the schedule is the inclusion of Leuzinger.

Another feature is that the list includes games with more distant towns than El Segundo has been in the habit of meeting, such as Claremont, Garden Grove and Laguna Beach. El Segundo will travel to Laguna Beach Oct. 9 for a Saturday afternoon contest which is something new.

In Own Class
It is hoped that the inauguration of the free lance system in El Segundo will put the high school team in a class that is more its own strength. In the past under league system, it has been forced to meet teams that drew from larger student bodies and were more powerful at least in reserve strength.

Considering that El Segundo has fewer than 270 mixed students in its high school and that certain other high schools the team has met have several times that number, the Hazeltine squads have done well, it is thought. Under the new system it is expected the Oilers may do even better.

Ritchie Returns From Abroad

land with the open golf championship, and touring the majestic Scottish National War Memorial in Edinburgh Castle. It was there that he found the names of a brother and an uncle engraved in stone. They were killed during the war.

Glad to Be Home
He brought home his deceased brother's kilt, brave with their Seaforth Highlander plaid, and a trunkful of souvenirs of the Coronation, the procession of which he witnessed from a third story ledge off Piccadilly. Ritchie sailed for home from Glasgow August 7 aboard the R. M. S. Athena and spent a week with another brother in Toronto on a fishing trip before continuing his journey westward.

"Scotland's still a braw land but I'll take Southern California for mine," he declared. "I would like to have my parents come and visit us here—my father, a retired schoolmaster, made the trip six years ago. They treated me fine and I had a grand time. Oh, yes, and the boys of the Canadian Legion post of Inglewood, of which I'm a member, gave me a gift of this—it arrived while I was at sea going over."

—And Ritchie displayed a handsome leather billfold, stamped with the Canadian Legion emblem and accompanied by a cordial bon voyage message.

YEAR-ROUND BARGE FISHING IS ASSURED

The Olympic fishing barge will remain open all year-round, it was announced this week by Capt. J. M. Andersen, skipper of the deep-sea fishing ship anchored off Hermosa Beach. The iron-hulled former queen of the seas has been passed 100 percent by Federal inspectors and will remain anchored off Hermosa throughout the fall and winter months.

It is expected that many thousands of tourists will visit the big ship during that period, Anderson says. "The fish are just as hungry in the winter as in the summer and anyway fishing is always good on board the Olympic."

New Anchorage for Fish Barge

Seeking an anchorage where the fishing would be good the year around, Capt. J. M. Andersen moved the Olympic fishing barge this week to a new choice anchorage, closer in to the Hermosa Pier, right on the inside bank of a natural fish feeding grounds. It takes less time now to reach the Olympic which gives the angler more time to fish.

Salmon groups, much sought after deep-sea fish, staged a run this week, according to Capt. Andersen. He attributed the presence of the big eight-pound groups to the fact that the Olympic is on the new anchorage.
